Canada's One Stop Resource for all Construction Related Projects

In association with Dodge Data & Analytics, the MERX Private Construction service offers the most comprehensive coverage of Canadian private sector construction projects. MERX reports on projects from the pre-bid stage all the way through to the start of construction and beyond. Dodge reported on 46% more bid-stage projects than competing services last year, helping make MERX Private Construction the best choice for construction related projects in Canada. MERX Private Construction offers you affordable access to the largest source of high quality leads who are actively looking for partners and sub-contractors.

Benefits of MERX Private Construction

Advanced notification of projects in the design phase will help with advanced planning to assist organizations in being ready to seize the opportunity when it is put out to tender.

Tracking projects allows for the identification of important projects of interest and the ability to automatically track any notice revisions made to the opportunity.

Identify potential partnerships by accessing the Bidders List where general contractors and/or engineers who have submitted a bid for a particular project are listed. This allows for the identification of partnering or sub-contracting opportunities.

Automatic notification of projects of interest are available online or are sent via email to save organizations time when searching for new business opportunities.

Energize Your Pipeline

The Private Construction service allows for electrical contractors with businesses of any size to gain access to billions of dollars in Canadian construction opportunities. Use MERX to search for projects, get details and track projects of interest. Fill up your sales pipeline for the coming months or year with a service that is affordable and easy to use. MERX Private Construction is a perfect fit for both general contractors and sub-contractors looking for Canadian construction projects.
